Derek - Tracked changes, both substantive and trying to help you start to clean it up. I can imagine you are bleary eyed! Impressive effort from the team. I note that I won't be able to get Jack's input until tomorrow so my input should not be construed as clearing...but I also don't think we're at the "process" point yet and rather this is a collaboration. - pc

All - Having now seen the style and substance of the rest of the paper, I've attached the following [REDACTED] I'm not sure who now has the pen on the overall paper (Derek? Jake?), but whomever does, feel free to continue to pare this down, though I tried to leave in as much of the material that RCH thought was key as possible. (It's now shy of 3 pages.) Among other things, [REDACTED]

I've also [REDACTED]

Let me know what else you may need from me. I'm out of pocket from roughly 8:30-10:30 this am, but otherwise available throughout the day.

Ali - here is the draft of the Pakistan paper.

Please take a close look to see that no critical information or argumentation is missing, and obviously we'll be continuing to rework this tomorrow.

Thanks, Derek

Subject: Steinmeier

As I mentioned yesterday, fm steinmeier asked to speak with you. He said he's available to speak today either between 11:30 and 12:30 or 4-5pm. Below is purpose of call. Also sending you separate news story.

Purpose of Call: FM Steinmeier has asked to speak with you to request your intervention in the deal to sell 55 percent of General Motors' (GM) holdings in the troubled German car-maker, Opel.

- We understand the significance of this issue for German industry and German workers. Treasury is the lead agency on this issue, and has been in close contact with your Chancellery and the Ministry of the Economy.

- Our government is taking a "hands off" role. Any decision will be made independently by GM, based on commercial considerations. The United States government does not play an active role nor do we have a position on any particular bid.

Background: An independent trust comprised of representatives of GM and the German government has been weighing bids from several interested parties on a controlling interest in GM's holdings in Opel. The German government has come out strongly in favor of a bid by Canadian Auto Parts Manufacturer Magna and has financing contingent on acceptance of Magna's bid. GM has concerns about this offer. Steinmeier was an early supporter of Magna's bid and came out early in the media to show leadership in protecting German jobs. Chancellor Merkel has since co-opted the issue and has thrown the full weight of the German government behind Magna. In May, Steinmeier spoke to you by phone about possible U.S. support for GM and the repercussions for Opel.

in the coming weeks and formally adopted at the next Foreign Affairs Council on July 26.

Hague will make his first visit to Pakistan as Foreign Secretary June 23-25 for meetings with President Zardari, PM Gilani, FM Qureshi, General Kayani, Interior Minister Malik, and opposition leader Nawaz Sharif. The visit will focus on enhancing the UK-Pakistan Strategic Dialogue, Afghanistan issues, and fulfilling assistance pledges.

The U.S.-UK Defense Trade Cooperation Treaty remains a major priority for the new British government, and Hague sent you a letter on June 16 expressing his hope that progress towards ratification might be achieved prior to PM Cameron's July 20 visit to Washington. We are working with the Departments of Defense and Justice to address one final issue of concern involving ATF and the import of firearms and explosives.

Some British media have speculated intensely on perceived "anti-British" sentiments in the comments of Administration officials in the aftermath of the Gulf of Mexico oil spill. BP is the most widely held stock in British pension plans, and the stock's recent decline has exacerbated the public outcry. In fact, while 40 percent of the stock is held by British shareholders, 39 percent is held by Americans. President Obama met with BP executives, including Chairman Carl-Henric Svanberg, on June 16. After the spill, the UK informed us of the availability of over 600 tons of chemical dispersant. However, only 50 tons met EPA requirements, and their supplies have not been needed to date.

Re: Request for Production of ClassNet and JWICS Email Records

Dear Assistant Secretary Starr:

This request supplements previous request sent to the U.S. Department of State (DoS) relative to the preservation and production of records associated with @clintonemail.com.

In furtherance of our examination of this matter, the FBI respectfully requests the production of all ClassNet and JWICS email messages sent to, or from, the following individuals for the period of January 21, 2009 to February 1, 2013:

1. Hillary Clinton
2. Jake Sullivan
3. Cheryl Mills
4. Huma Abedin
5. Philippe Reines

In the event that any of the above referenced individuals did not have a ClassNet or JWICS email account during the referenced time period, or that such records cannot be produced for technical or other means, it is requested that your response details such. It is further requested that these records be provided to the FBI within thirty (30) days from the receipt of this request.

You are requested not to disclose the existence of this request to individuals other than to those necessary to comply with this request, as the FBI's interest in this matter may otherwise be jeopardized.

Re: Request for the Production of OpenNet, ClassNet and Email Records for Thomas Lawrence

Dear Assistant Secretary Starr:

This request supplements previous requests sent to the U.S. Department of State relative to the preservation and production of records associated with @clintonemail.com.

In furtherance of our examination of this matter, the FBI respectfully requests the production of all OpenNet, ClassNet and JWICS email messages sent to, or from, Thomas Lawrence, for the period of January 21, 2009 to February 1, 2013, which are relevant to the setup, operation or maintenance of former Secretary Clinton's private email server. These records should be provided to the FBI within thirty (30) days from the receipt of this request.

Subject: Requests a copy of the email that was withheld from the February 29, 2016 Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) release because it pertained to an unidentified law enforcement matter.

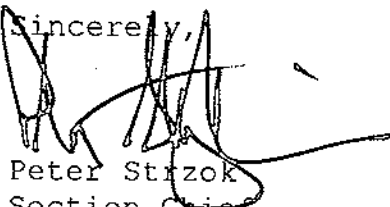

(U//~~FOUO~~) Pursuant to the FBI's ongoing investigation into the potential compromise of classified information, the FBI requests a copy of the email that was withheld in full from the February 29, 2016 FOIA release at the request of a law enforcement agency and a brief description of the events that led to the email being withheld.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The email was referenced by Department of State (DoS) Spokesman John Kirby during the February 29, 2016 Daily Press Briefing. More specifically, per the transcript on the DoS website, Mr. Kirby stated "I can confirm that at the request of a law enforcement agency, one one-page document is being denied in full from our FOIA production this evening. This document is unclassified - unclassified."

Obama's Phone Security and Yours

By Roy Furchgott

Now that the president is being allowed to keep his BlackBerry "with restrictions," you wonder what kinds of restrictions? And what exactly are the security threats that led staffers to want to take away BlackBerry One?

(Credit: Stan Honda/Agence France-Presse — Getty Images)

The answers, from a former White House staffer, are instructive for anyone who wants to protect their privacy when using a smartphone.

The reason White House staff is so concerned about phone invasions is they are fairly easy to mount. Malware can be secreted on a phone through the 3G network, Bluetooth or Wi-Fi, not to mention someone snatching an unattended phone and entering something by wire or memory card.

There are basically three major threats. One is the phone would be turned into a listening device. Another is calls or messages could be intercepted and data stolen. A third is using the phone's GPS as a tracking device. All are possible.

So how does the White House deal with the problem? "We do not permit people to take the devices in areas where sensitive conversations are held," said Joe Hagin who as deputy chief of staff for operations in the Bush White House dealt with mobile phone security. He is now on the board of SMobile Systems, a mobile phone security firm.

White House staffers aren't allowed to carry the phone when traveling to certain countries. "We had a security group make recommendations, based on things we shouldn't go into," he said. The phones not only stayed behind, they were disabled.

And at no time is any sensitive information sent by mobile (except on specially approved devices). In the case of the president everything is sensitive. "Almost any info on the president is of interest to a lot of people," Mr. Hagin said. Even something innocuous, like a messaging, "Honey, I'll be working late," could give someone just a right puzzle piece to determine what the president is working on and manipulate the situation for gain.

The president's phone is sensitive for another reason; the communications can be politically dangerous. "The political issue arises because the favorite game in Washington is gotcha," said Mr. Hagin. To look at just one potential political landmine, imagine if an acquaintance of the president sends a controversial e-mail to a list of people and the president is cc'd on the list. Now he faces an inquiry ("Did you receive the e-mail?" and "Did you repudiate the sender?"), and a distracting political battle.

Any e-mail messages from the phone become part of the official presidential record. Although the record won't be opened until a decade or more after the president steps down, Mr. Hagin said, how might hastily thumbed messages affect the presidential legacy?

Likely steps to securing the presidential BlackBerry would include installing a personal firewall, a program to spot malware, spam and message blocking, encrypting the data on the phone, and disabling both Bluetooth and Wi-Fi. There would also probably be a program to remotely wipe out data if the phone is stolen.

All of those measures are available to consumers in phone security software suites, generally costing less than $50.

But even more important for the average Joe (or C.E.O.), said Dan Hoffman, chief technology officer of SMobile, is to use some common sense. "I've seen people manage their password list on a plane right in front of me. If you make your password 12345, there isn't a lot anybody can do to protect you." BACK TO INDEX

Your Cell and Your Berry: Tools of the Enemy

By Walter Pincus
Tuesday, March 3, 2009; A11

In the new electronic information world, your cellphone or BlackBerry can be tagged, tracked, monitored and exploited by a foreign intelligence service between the time you disembark from a plane in that country's capital and the time you reach the airport taxi stand.

That is according to Joel F. Brenner, national counterintelligence executive and mission manager for counterintelligence for the director of national intelligence.

In a talk on information-sharing last Wednesday at a conference sponsored by the Institute for Defense and Government Advancement, Brenner described his job by invoking the image of a hole materializing in a security fence. "Our job in part," he said, "is to figure out how it got there, who's been coming through it, and what they took when they left." In addition, he said, his group tries to figure out "how to return the favor," meaning how to break into the adversary's networks.

The thrust of his presentation was to alert the audience and the public to the vulnerability of new electronic communications devices and the growth in the number and types of groups exploiting them.

Cellphones, he said, are great devices for sharing information, "but the mike can be turned on when you think it is off." An iPod's ear buds can be converted to a recording device when not in your ears. Brenner described thumb drives as "the electronic equivalent of unprotected sex" and the biggest source of what he calls "ETDs," or electronically transmitted diseases.

Those vulnerabilities are increasingly-exploited in the intelligence world as demand increases for the sharing of collected information and the resulting analysis. Brenner noted the countervailing pressures within the intelligence community and society in general to share intelligence as well as restrict it. The "propeller heads" who invent new "cool" ways to transfer information in the intelligence world, Brenner said, are similar to those in civilian companies. They believe in openness, not secrecy, and therein lies the problem.

"We have not paid enough attention to the operational and CI implications of the rapid deployment of information systems," Brenner said, using the abbreviation for counterintelligence.

He pointed out that the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks were arguably the result of a failure to relay intelligence where it was most needed within the CIA and FBI. "The next disaster," he said, could "well be caused by our relentless push to move information before we understand where it's going, only to find later that we moved it right into the lap of a hostile foreign intelligence service or terrorist organization."

Americans, he said, are basically "a trusting lot not born with an inclination to protect secrets." Added to that is "our workforce's relentless demand for convenience and its impatience with reasonable security requirements." When the competing demands clash, Brenner said, "convenience wins hands down, every time."

Figures he presented from the Department of Homeland Security showed that unauthorized access to U.S. government computers and, more ominously, the introduction of malicious software or viruses are both growing. There were 2,172 known incidents of government computer tampering in 2006, compared with 3,928 in 2007 and 5,499 last year.

In the civilian world, Brenner said, hacking into Web sites has gone from a prank to a highly profitable business. "Cybercrime is now a mature business model, with a well-developed secondary market for electronic burglar's tools and stolen information," he said. There has been a change in what is being stolen, he added, because the market for illegally obtained personal data, such as credit card and Social Security numbers, has become saturated. The new target for criminal hackers is corporate intellectual data.

The only answer for electronic systems protection, Brenner said, is training and earning the loyalty of employees — who could enable security breaches — whether in government or the private sector. He told of an appearance last year before a Silicon Valley audience that he thought wanted him to describe some single system to eliminate the vulnerabilities of electronic systems.

The answer he gave them: "There is no black box, real or imagined, that can make this problem go away."

National security and intelligence reporter Walter Pincus pores over the speeches, reports, transcripts and other documents that flood Washington and every week uncovers the fine print that rarely makes headlines — but should. If you have any items that fit the bill, please send them to

Subject: Supplemental Classification Review and Determination Request

(U//~~FOUO~~) In July 2015, the FBI received a Section 811 referral from the Inspector General for the Intelligence Community (ICIG) regarding the possible compromise of classified national security information.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The potential compromise was identified when, as part of a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, the U.S. Department of State (DoS) and the ICIG reviewed electronic mail (email) communications from private email accounts previously used by a former Secretary of State during her tenure at DoS. An initial review of this material identified emails containing national security information later determined by the US Intelligence Community (USIC) to be classified up to the Top Secret/Sensitive Compartmented Information level.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI respectfully requests DoS conduct an official classification review and determination of the related documents contained on the accompanying DVD. This request is in addition to a previous Classification Review and Request submitted to your agency in 2015. While this request is separate from the 2015 request, it should be responded to in similar manner.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI understands you may also be reviewing materials as part of ongoing FOIA lawsuits involving some of these documents. This matter should remain separate from the FOIA matter(s) and information from this request should not be shared or co-mingled with the FOIA matter(s) to ensure the FBI's investigation is not compromised or adversely affected.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI also understands that DoS may have previously received similar, separate requests from other entities for an official classification review and determination for some or all of the documents contained on the enclosed DVD. In order to ensure consistency, the FBI requests DoS de-conflict its response to this FBI request with any previous classification determination responses related to these documents, and to provide the FBI the same classification determinations. The FBI requests DoS to provide as soon as possible any previously rendered official classification determinations of documents related to this matter, to include any classification determinations of documents related to the @clintonemail.com domain that are not contained on the attached DVD. The FBI requests DoS to provide classification determination responses to the FBI on a rolling basis as they become available.

(U//~~FOUO~~) Similar to the FBI's previous request, the enclosed DVDs contains a ReadMe.docx file, which provides an explanation of the files contained on the DVD. The DVDs also contain a Microsoft Excel spreadsheet titled Classification Review Response Tracker to assist your agency with tracking and responding to this classification review and determination request. The documents for review are listed in the FileList.xlsx spreadsheet and are contained in the Items folder. The Items folder is further explained in the aforementioned ReadMe.docx file. In the event DoS is aware of any equities belonging to other US Government agencies contained in documents provided as part of this request, the FBI requests DoS to identify those other US Government agencies in the "Notes" section of the enclosed spreadsheet.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI may contact you in the future to ask you to prioritize the review of certain items provided as part of this request.

(U//~~FOUO~~) You are requested not to disclose the existence of this inquiry or the contents of the provided media, other than as necessary for compliance; disclosure may jeopardize the confidential nature of the FBI's investigation.

SUBJECT: (SBU/LES) Classification Reviews of Loaned Documents and Assessments of Documents Previously Released Through the FOIA

(SBU/LES) The Department of State has responded to the following FBI requests for classification reviews of loaned documents provided on various discs and hard copy:

January 20, 2016: State responded on 6/16/2016 and 7/15/2016 (DEHQ44, DEHQ53)

March 8, 2016: State Responded on 6/13/2016 (four loaned e-mail chains)

April 4, 2016: State responded on 6/20/2016 and 7/11/2016 (DEHQ61, DEHQ62)

b7E per DOS

April 7, 2016: Request [redacted] for prioritization of determinations of upgraded Top Secret and Secret, documents previously released through FOIA. State responded on 6/24/16.

May 10, 2016: State responded on 6/20/2016 (DEHQ71)

May 19, 2016: State responded on 6/8/2016 (Binder of 17 loaned documents)

June 2, 2016: State responded on 6/13/2016 (7 loaned documents)

(SBU/LES) Unless the Department of State receives notification to the contrary, we consider these requests fulfilled with no further action required.

(SBU/LES) Regarding the upgraded CONFIDENTIAL documents previously redacted for release through FOIA, it is the Department's understanding from our April 7, 2016, secure video teleconference that the FBI does not require determinations of those documents for the purposes of the FBI's investigation. The Department of State requests written confirmation of this understanding as soon as possible.

Subject: Supplemental Classification Review and Determination Request

(U//~~FOUO~~) In July 2015, the FBI received a Section 811 referral from the Inspector General for the Intelligence Community (ICIG) regarding the possible compromise of classified national security information.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The potential compromise was identified when, as part of a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, the U.S. Department of State (DoS) and the ICIG reviewed electronic mail (email) communications from private email accounts previously used by a former Secretary of State during her tenure at DoS. An initial review of this material identified emails containing national security information later determined by the US Intelligence Community (USIC) to be classified up to the Top Secret/Sensitive Compartmented Information level.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI respectfully requests that DoS conduct an official classification review and determination of the attached documents to assess both the current classification and the classification when they were drafted.

~~(S//NF)~~ The documents being submitted for review appear to be early drafts of a classified DoS Memorandum to the National Security Advisor, dated October 10, 2009, with the subject "U.S. Policy Towards Pakistan." A copy of this memorandum is also attached for Subject: Classification review and determination request for documents provided to DoS on May 16, 2016 and May 19, 2016.

(U//~~FOUO~~) In July 2015, the FBI received a Section 811 referral from the Inspector General for the Intelligence Community (ICIG) regarding the possible compromise of classified national security information.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The potential compromise was identified when, as part of a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, the U.S. Department of State (DoS) and the ICIG reviewed electronic mail (email) communications from private email accounts previously used by a former Secretary of State during her tenure at DoS. An initial review of this material identified emails containing national security information later determined by the US Intelligence Community (USIC) to be classified up to the Top Secret/Sensitive Compartmented Information level.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The FBI respectfully requests that DoS conduct an official classification review and determination of the 16 documents provided to DoS on May 16, 2016, and one additional document submitted with this request. It is requested that the review be completed by May 20, 2016. The majority of these documents were previously submitted to DoS as part of other classification review requests. However, these documents have since been determined to be relevant to current investigative activities. It is therefore requested that they are prioritized over other pending classification review requests from the FBI.
